

Where We Are with Wind Power Right Now

a talk by Sarah Taylor

Sarah Taylor was the catalyst who set in motion the effort to bring Offshore Wind to Cleveland in 2006. She will provide an update on this project, as well as address the worry about bird impact, which has been raised as a reason to slow down, or stop, wind power development. Sarah's husband, CWRU physics professor, Philip Taylor, will also participate in the presentation.
